Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on January 14, 2010 has been entered.

Specification

The examiner has not checked the specification to the extent necessary to determine the presence of all possible minor errors (grammatical, typographical and idiomatic). Cooperation of the applicant(s) is requested in correcting any errors of which applicant(s) may become aware of in the specification, in the claims and in any future amendment(s) that applicant(s) may file.

Applicant(s) is also requested to complete the status of any copending applications referred to in the specification by their Attorney Docket Number or Application Serial Number, if any.

The status of the parent application(s) and/or any other application(s) cross-referenced to this application, if any, should be updated in a timely manner.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the fourth paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

Art Unit: 1732

Subject to the [fifth paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112], a claim in dependent form shall contain a reference to a claim previously set forth and then specify a further limitation of the subject matter claimed. A claim in dependent form shall be construed to incorporate by reference all the limitations of the claim to which it refers.

Claim 7 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, 4th paragraph, as being of improper dependent form for failing to further limit the subject matter of the claim upon which it depends, or for failing to include all the limitations of the claim upon which it depends.

Claim 7 recites that both the core and the external layer are zeolites. This fails to limit claim 1, which already includes these limitations.

Applicant may cancel the claim(s), amend the claim(s) to place the claim(s) in proper dependent form, or present a sufficient showing that the dependent claim(s) complies with the statutory requirements.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.

4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

This application currently names joint inventors. In considering patentability of the claims under 35 U.S.C. 103(a), the examiner presumes that the subject matter of the various claims was commonly owned at the time any inventions covered therein were made absent any evidence to the contrary. Applicant is advised of the obligation under 37 CFR 1.56 to point out the inventor and invention dates of each claim that was not commonly owned at the time a later invention was made in order for the examiner to consider the applicability of 35 U.S.C. 103(c) and potential 35 U.S.C. 102(e), (f) or (g) prior art under 35 U.S.C. 103(a).

The rejections set forth in the office action of October 14, 2009 are hereby withdrawn. The following new rejections are applicable:

Claims 1-3 and 6-17 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over the Goossens et al. articles taken individually.

The Goossens et al. articles teach a catalyst composition comprising micron-sized EMT crystals (grains) covered with a layer of FAU. Accordingly, the material is comprised of two different crystallographic materials having different chemical formulas. The FAU layer is continuous. Grain sizes appear consistent with the figures. See particularly the figures. They further demonstrate that the material may have a spherical shape. Furthermore, the examiner takes the position that the shape of the material is dependent on the identity of the core material or the intended use of the final materials, and the skilled artisan would consider such selection a result-effective variable, absent some convincing showing of evidence to the contrary. With respect to layer thicknesses, it is considered that such is also a result-effective variable, as the skilled artisan will employ the minimum material amounts to achieve the maximum in selectivity and reaction rate. The identity of zeolite core and shell is within the skill of the artisan, depending upon the ultimate intended use of the composition, as evidenced by prior art of record in the application.

The only substantive difference between this material and the composition under examination is the failure of the references to recite a "uniformity criterion". However, the examiner takes the position that this is a characteristic that naturally flows from the composition, (i.e. from a core having a uniform layer thereon), and as the references disclose just such a material, this characteristic would be within the range recited in the instant claims.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-3 and 6-17 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Applicants are advised that any evidence to be provided under 37 CFR 1.131 or 1.132 and any amendments to the claims and specification should be submitted prior to final rejection to be considered timely. It is anticipated that the next office action will be a final rejection.
